  Mr. Bharani: "I firmly believe that responsible promotion starts with due diligence. That's why I chose to visit the factory in Kakinada. I wanted to see first-hand how the oil is manufactured and ensure that it meets the high standards that Freedom promises."

MINDFULNESS BEYOND LIFESTYLE: Corporates today are giving their employees time off to learn and practice mindfulness. They are also investing in mindfulness retreats. Does this imply that mindfulness is a tool which improves productivity or is it just a lifestyle fad?

Whatever mindfulness does or is, it is loosely understood as living in the present. Even as the nature of time is such that it is not possible to live in the past or future, the mind is often burdened with nostalgia. A lot of energy also goes into speculation about the future.

The present is allowed to slip away, with no awareness of it. Mindfulness wants us to capture and savour the moment which is the present. The lifestyle view of mindfulness is very rosy. It has made it a kind of a buzzword promising great joy and happiness. Yoga on the other hand looks at it as a spiritual exploration. It is a quest for the meaning of truth and immortality in a transient and illusory life.

Yoga holds that time is the movement of moments in succession. The movement is transient, irreversible and unreal. The moment, however, is eternal and real. It is neither the past nor the future and stands still till it moves away. Chronological time can only move forward. The mind, which also has the ability to move, can move into the past, the future or even fantasy.

The awareness of the present moment and the understanding that all else is unreal is called Viveka Gnana. It is an exalted knowledge. Like all things exalted, attaining it is a rigorous exercise. It is believed to shift the mind from sensory and perceptual misconceptions. It is a deconstruction process which leads to self realisation and detachment. The risk is that a lack of rigour or understanding during the process of deconstruction can lead to anxiety.

The Buddhist middle path, which is also becoming popular again, softens the process for the less adept. This approach is also derived from the concept that the movement of time is unreal and relative while the moment is real. Acting in the moment, there is no rancour about the past or speculation about the future.

As with yoga the process ideally requires rigour in its practice and a great intensity of meditation, which is best done by monks. What makes it accessible to others is its focus on friendship, empathy and compassion. Corporates investing in mindfulness may well be seeking to bring these elements into their teamwork. —Jamuna Rao in Deccan Herald

Gathering of angels breaks world record

Bulacan (Philippines): A town in Bulacan made history by breaking the Guinness World Record for having the largest gathering of people dressed as angels on Dec. 14. San Rafael, Bulacan announced that it successfully broke Canada's Misericordia Health Centre Foundation's record of 1,275 for the title of the 'Largest Gathering of People Dressed as Angels,' a record that had stood since December 2015.

The town gathered 2,000 Bulakenyos, including youth, students, seniors, barangay officials and local leaders, all dressed in angel costumes featuring white robes, halos and wings. The record-breaking attempt took place at the town's Victory Coliseum, derived from the annual celebration of San Rafael's "Angel Festival" in honour of its patron saint, Saint Raphael, one of the Seven Archangels in Christianity.

The Mona Shores Singing Christmas Tree, which features a 180-student high school choir and stands 15 rows tall, belted out 19 holiday tunes at a Muskegon theatre this week and was set to perform two more shows on Saturday. A file photo of a leopard carrying away a pet dog at Karakanahalli village near Yelwal in Mysuru taluk in February this year.

Mysuru, Dec. 22 (MTY&BCT)- In response to the rising incidents of leopard attacks in the forest fringes and urban areas of Mysuru, plans are underway to establish a state-of-the-art Leopard Rescue and Rehabilitation Centre at Yelwal, on the Mysuru-Hunsur Road. A Detailed Project Report (DPR) with an estimated cost of Rs. 70 crore has been prepared and is awaiting Government approval.

The Forest Department is taking proactive steps to find a permanent solution to increasing leopard attacks and following the successful establishment of a Leopard Task Force (LTF), efforts are now on to set up the rehabilitation centre — inspired by the Gujarat model — for rescued leopards in a 92-acre area.

Over the past few years, the increase in leopard sightings has been significant not only in Mysuru but also in Chamarajanagar, Hassan, Mandya and Kodagu districts. These leopards have been instilling fear by attacking not only livestock but also people. Although leopards generally have a timid nature, avoiding human settlements, incidents in T. Narasipur Taluk of Mysuru district two years ago saw four people, including a young girl, being killed by leopards.

MCC asked to enforce penalties for waste segregation non-compliance

National Green Tribunal State Committee Chairman Justice Subhash Adi chairs solid waste management meeting

Mysuru, Dec. 22 (PM&BCT)- Chairman of State Committee of National Green Tribunal Justice Subhash B. Adi directed the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) to implement measures for the segregation of three types of waste — wet waste, dry waste, and biomedical waste — at the household level. Citizens who fail to comply should face penalties and this rule must be strictly enforced.

He was chairing a meeting on Solid Waste Management at Sri Jayachamarajendra Wadiyar Hall of the MCC last evening where officials from various local institutions, stakeholders, and entrepreneurs had gathered.

Chairman of State Committee of National Green Tribunal Justice Subhash B. Adi chairing a meeting at Sri Jayachamarajendra Wadiyar Hall at MCC premises in city yesterday.

"Waste should be separated and handed over to Pourakarmikas at the source. Continuous efforts must be made to educate citizens on this process and penalties should be imposed if segregation is not followed," Justice Adi said.

The MCC has to collect dry waste and no other entities should be permitted to do so. Dry waste, such as reusable materials like plastic cups from events, holds significant value and can be recycled into valuable resources, generating income for the MCC, Justice Adi said noted.

This initiative will not only create revenue but also provide employment opportunities for individuals sorting dry waste. Organisers of any event — whether political, religious or social — must obtain MCC permission, as mandated by law.

Hotels, hostels and apartments, producing substantial amounts of waste should be encouraged to manage wet waste by converting it into compost onsite. Large site owners should also be informed about this.

VOICE OF THE READER

Bogadi Main Road crying for attention

Sir,

I have been residing in Bogadi since 2004 and have personally witnessed the civic development that has taken place over the years. One of the best features of this area is its well-connected and wide roads, stretching from the southern part of the city to the northern part, eventually leading to the Ring Road junction.

The presence of various commercial establishments on both sides of the main road reflects the thriving real estate sector and the increasing population density.

However, the traffic along the main road and the crossroads leading into the inner residential layouts and extensions on either side has become a significant concern, causing severe chaos. Drivers and pedestrians alike often experience a sense of insecurity due to the lack of proper infrastructure and regulation.

Bogadi Main Road has grown to become one of the most critical thoroughfares, providing long connectivity between the two ends of Mysuru. Consequently, the traffic volume remains high throughout the day.

Regrettably, there is no traffic discipline due to the absence of traffic signal posts at key points such as the 'Harsha Bar Junction' and the 'Mata Amritanandamayi Mutt Cross.' After the traffic signal post near the All India Institute of Speech and Hearing, there are no signal posts until the Ring Road.

This stretch consistently witnesses heavy traffic of all kinds, leading to frequent accidents resulting in injuries and fatalities.

Adding to the concern, the streetlights are installed only on one side of the road, leaving the other side in darkness. This lack of adequate lighting poses a grave danger, increasing the risk of accidents.

I sincerely request the concerned authorities to install traffic signal posts at the two crucial points mentioned — Harsha Bar Junction and Mata Amritanandamayi Mutt/College/School Junction. This will help regulate traffic, ensure disciplined and safe movement, and alleviate the ongoing congestion.

Newer technologies aiding fraudsters a big worry: Dr. D. Veerendra Heggade

Dr. D. Veerendra Heggade addressing the gathering at Sri Ramakrishna Vidyashala in city yesterday as Vidyashala Principal T.K. Chandrasekhar and Swami Muktidanandaji look on.

Mysuru, Dec. 22 (SPN&BS)- Dharmasthala Dharmadhikari Dr. D. Veerendra Heggade has expressed his concern over how the pattern of cheating people is changing in the society, along with the invention of new technologies. He was addressing the gathering during the 72nd College Day celebration of Sri Ramakrishna Vidyashala at the Vidyashala premises, Yadavagiri, in the city yesterday.

Dr. Heggade said, digital technology is conducive for the development of the country, but what's worrisome is the way in which people are being taken for a ride. To prevent such tendency among people, it is better advised to give more impetus towards teaching spirituality along with education.

"There will be two categories of students in residential schools. While one category consists of students who grew up in a better environment amidst good culture, another category of students include those rated as mischievous at home. It is common to hear from several parents about their wards being mischievous, the one reason that impelled to admit them to residential schools. But, it is challenging for the Ashram authorities to treat them equally without showing any discrimination and bring them on the right path," asserted Dr. Heggade.

Continuing, Heggade said, "one can win over his rivals only with love and not by practicing hatred. Spirituality develops culture, as I share a close rapport with Sri Ramakrishna Ashram, Mangaluru and Mysuru branches for the past 55 years. The demand to admit students to Ramakrishna Vidyashala in Mysuru is also high and so also for spiritual education in this country is also more."

The parents are more willing to admit their children to Ramakrishna Vidyashala, for the only reason that, the education imparted here will mould them to build their life. It is a matter of happiness that, the parents are inclined towards the value and culture based education provided here, said Dr. Heggade.

Old boys of RK Vidyashala visit Viveka Smaraka

Old students of Sri Ramakrishna (RK) Vidyashala, Mysuru, along with their family members, at the site of Viveka Smaraka this morning.

Mysuru, Dec. 22 (BLU&BS)- Adhyaksha of Sri Ramakrishna Ashram, Mysuru, Swami Muktidanandaji described the site of under construction Swami Vivekananda Cultural Youth Centre (Viveka Smaraka) on Narayan Sastri Road in the city, as a place of saints and monks, which has been well-documented in several literary works of Rashtrakavi Kuvempu.

Addressing the gathering of old students of Sri Ramakrishna (RK) Vidyashala, at the site of Viveka Smaraka this morning, Swami Muktidanandaji said, during his visit to Mysore (now Mysuru) in the year 1892, Swami Vivekananda was staying in the nearby Shiva Temple. Vivekananda who was practicing meditation during his stay, had the habit of taking a walk till the Palace through Krishna Vilas Road.

As many as 1,500 old students, along with their family members totalling about 2,000, had gathered at the programme.

Correspondent of Sri Ramakrishna Ashram, Mysuru, Swami Yukteshanandaji, Swami Punyeshwaranandaji, Swami Aatmanishtanandaji, Swami Mahabalanandaji and Swami Dhutyanandaji were present.

Birth anniversary of Sri Sarada Devi

Earlier in the day, 172nd birth anniversary celebrations of Sri Sarada Devi was celebrated at Sri Ramakrishna Ashram, Yadavagiri. 'Achievement needs time management, discipline'

Mysuru, Dec. 22 (SPN&BS)- Air Deccan Founder Capt. G.R. Gopinath has given a clarion call to the students to imbibe values and principles to achieve the aim in life. He was addressing the students, after receiving the guard of honour, during the 72nd College Day Field Display at the premises of Sri Ramakrishna Vidyashala, Yadavagiri, in the city yesterday.

"Swami Vivekananda strongly propagated Indian tradition and values, in his address at various platforms across the globe. Especially, Swami Vivekananda's message on leveraging youth power is considered as a beacon of light for the students aiming to achieve in their life," he said.

Recalling his stint in armed forces, Capt. G.R. Gopinath said, those were the days when priority was given for time management and discipline. Similar qualities can be found in the students of Sri Ramakrishna Vidyashala. The students should make use of the opportunities that come in their way during their school days to reach the aim they have set in their life.

The parade led by Parade Commander Likith Raj Urs attracted the gathering. Certificates were distributed to the students who had taken part in various sports.

Leopard Rescue Centre

Additionally, over the past two years, leopards have been preying on livestock and pet dogs, which has raised concerns. Consequently, the establishment of a Leopard Rescue and Rehabilitation Centre has been prioritised.

From Koorgalli to Yelwal

During preliminary discussions, it was proposed to establish the rescue centre on 5 to 8-acre land near Mysuru Zoo's Chamundi Rescue and Rehabilitation Centre, Koorgalli. A DPR was also prepared with an estimated cost of Rs. 50 crore.

However, Koorgalli was deemed unsuitable. Consequently, the Forest Department has identified a location near Yelwal, where the Forest Training Centre is located on a 97-acre area. Drawing inspiration from the establishment of a Lion Rehabilitation Centre in Gujarat, the aim is to create a similar facility.

Last year, a team led by Saurabh Kumar, who was then the Deputy Conservator of Forests (DCF) of Mysuru Wildlife Division, visited Gujarat for evaluation. Subsequently, a DPR has been prepared.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Dr. I.B. Prabhu Gowda, DCF, Mysuru Wildlife Division, stated that with the establishment of this Centre, leopards rescued from Mysuru, Chamarajanagar, Mandya, Hassan, and Kodagu districts will be rehabilitated.

This will include monitoring the movement of captured leopards and implementing measures to prevent overpopulation and conflicts.

Conflict resolution imperatives

Mysuru is surrounded by Nagarahole Tiger Reserve and Bandipur Tiger Reserve, along with several social and reserved forest areas, as well as agricultural land, which has seen an increase in leopard habitats. These incidents highlight the urgent need for effective management and rehabilitation of leopards.

Following the killings in T. Narasipur, the Forest Department established the Leopard Task Force (LTF) which has rescued an average of 30-35 leopards annually and responded to over 1,000 complaints.

Rescue centre facilities

An enclosure and wall will be constructed around the Leopard Rescue Centre. Healthy leopards captured and brought in will not only be confined to a cage but will be provided with natural environment to lead a life closer to their natural habitat.

Additionally, the Centre will include facilities such as a hospital, treatment room, surgery room, post-mortem room, conservation vehicle, ambulance, scientific cage, quarantine centre and other necessary amenities. The LTF will continue to operate from here.

Man murdered

Yesterday, around 7 pm, Ibrahim, carrying a bag containing an electric chainsaw and other items, arrived at the farmhouse and knocked on the door. When Yashodamma opened the door and inquired, Ibrahim showed her the electric saw in the bag and claimed it had been ordered from her home, explaining that he had come to deliver it.

When Yashodamma informed him that no one had ordered the chainsaw, Ibrahim walked towards the gate with Yashodamma following him to lock it as he left. However, he suddenly switched on the electric saw and slashed Yashodamma's cheek, causing severe bleeding and rendering her unconscious.

Leaving Yashodamma behind, Ibrahim then entered the house and found Ramesh, who was paralysed and lying on the bed. He then allegedly sawed off Ramesh's hands, legs, and neck, severing them from the body.

Shows presence of mind

Meanwhile, after some time, Yashodamma regained consciousness and entered the house to find her husband in a pool of blood. Using her presence of mind, Yashodamma silently stepped out, latched the door from the outside and screamed for help, alerting her neighbours who rushed to the farmhouse. The villagers, who witnessed the horrifying scene inside, beat Ibrahim severely.

Srirangapatna Rural Inspector B.J. Kumar, along with his staff, arrived at the scene and arrested Ibrahim, who had sustained injuries from the villagers' assault. Ibrahim was then taken to Srirangapatna General Hospital for treatment, while Yashodamma was shifted to a hospital in Mysuru for further care.

A CCTV camera installed at the farmhouse captured the footage of Ibrahim entering the gate and interacting with Yashodamma. Although Kyathanahalli falls under Pandavapura taluk, its jurisdiction comes under Srirangapatna Rural Police limits, who have registered a case.

Combating an emerging Environmental Crisis

As we march along with the rapidly changing times that we are in, we encounter newer and newer problems, for which we have to find solutions, some of which are not easy to come by. But this is the inevitable price we have to pay for progress and there is just no escape from it.

One such major problem the entire world is facing today, is of the growing environmental pollution which is entirely due to our present-day lifestyle and rapidly growing population. There was no problem that went by this name till the advent of industrial revolution and increasing use of fossil fuels started, at the commencement of last century.

Until then, when men were contented with being old-fashioned agriculturists, growing or gathering what they wanted and sharing or exchanging what was with them in excess, we too, just like all the other inhabitants of this world, were not leaving any carbon footprints whatsoever, on our planet.

But now, that old-fashioned contentment has gone missing, with our growing dependence on and a demand for an easier and more affluent lifestyle, where flaunting what we are and have, seems to be more important than our contentment. That is why today, as we battle our many lifestyle diseases, we are even constantly watching what kind of air we are breathing, as we gasp and pant for breath.

Until very recently, it was only in our biggest and most industrialised cities that air quality was a matter of concern. But of late, a new kind of danger to the air quality seems to be emerging, most surprisingly, not from rapid industrialisation or the use of fossil fuels, but from agricultural areas and activities too, which hitherto were considered to be our best carbon sinks, keeping our air clean.

With the growing use of farm machinery for agricultural activities, thanks to a rapidly dwindling human work force, farmers across our once agriculture intensive country are depending less and less on animals for tilling their farms.

A smog-choked Taj Mahal.

Until these were around, doing their work, instead of the tractors that do it now, the hay that was the byproduct of agriculture was in much demand as animal fodder. But today, hay has no takers and farmers too who have no use for it, are forced to dispose it off by burning it in their fields. This is the only way out for them now and this activity in the neighbouring States is the one on which the entire blame for the shockingly bad air quality of cities like Delhi is being foisted.

Not many inhabitants of Delhi are willing to talk about the smoke that spews out from the daily grind of the city, which has a staggering four hundred and eighty vehicles for every thousand citizens. All the fog and smog that forces schools and colleges to be shut there periodically, in the post-harvest winter months, is attributed largely to stubble burning which has been banned by law, although the authorities vested with the responsibility of imposing it are unable to implement it effectively.

It is not just Delhi that suffers from this problem but most other areas of North India too. The South too seems to be slowly but surely coming under its effect. Just two days ago there was a report in the newspapers that the Krishna and the Tungabhadra basins in our own State, where rice is the predominant crop that is grown, have been getting choked by thick smoke and smog.

Interestingly, these are areas with very few motor vehicles and almost no heavy industries. We are shown visuals regularly in the media, of the famed Taj Mahal, almost completely shrouded in dense smog in the background, with ghostly figures of disappointed tourists in the foreground. These make good visuals and good impact too, no doubt, to press for some corrective action, but no one seems to be able to suggest how we should go about it.

The fact is that along with making emission norms stricter and standards higher for vehicles, we need to do something to make things easier for our farmers to dispose the waste that agriculture generates, season after season. It has been estimated that for a kilogram of grain produced, a kilogram of hay too is produced. Sadly, beyond using this hay as fodder for their livestock, as they used to in the past, or burning it away, as they are doing in the present, they know of no other way to put it to any use.

A farmer burning stubble.

But there are many options today about which our governments, both at the Centre and the States should enlighten and aid them in adopting. For instance, our neighbouring countries like Thailand, Vietnam, Indonesia and Malaysia which too are predominantly agricultural economies, have been doing so over many years now.

Rice straw and husk and banana fibre too, are being used to produce many products like disposable plates, insulating boards, cattle and poultry feed, paper, cardboard and even high-density plastic-like materials that can be easily moulded or extruded into complex shapes. Having done this they have even been able to capture widespread export markets for their products for which the demand is only growing, enriching themselves in the process.

The time therefore seems to have come for our farmers too, to stop burning their haystacks and make hay, while the sun shines!

Many sacrificed for art cause

Popular Kannada film lyricist Dr.V. Nagendra Prasad said, there are several examples of artistes, who have sold their assets for the cause of arts.

He was airing his views on the topic 'Theatre, Filmdom and Small Screen' during a seminar organised on the second day of Sahitya Sammelan, here yesterday.

Recalling the contributions of theatre artistes of yore, Dr. Nagendra Prasad said, Malavalli Sundaramma, who laid a firm foundation for theatre in this region, staged dramas across the State through her Drama Company, with mythological dramas being her forte. The credit of providing maiden opportunity to Dr. Rajkumar, in his debut film Bedara Kannappa goes to H.L.N. Simha, also from Malavalli.

Similarly, not many are aware that, late actor Dr. Vishnuvardhan was a native of Hallagere in the district. Actor turned politician M.H. Ambarish, who was popular as 'Rebel Star' was also a native of the district.

Likewise, actors Ramya, Neenasam Satish, 'Jogi' Prem, Mandya Ramesh, film director A.P. Arjun, actress Akshata Pandavapura and several other actors have their roots here, said Nagendra Prasad.

Not many book buyers: Though there is a surge in footfalls at Sahitya Sammelana, not many are inclined towards buying the books at the book stalls opened as part of the literary conference.

Array of books spanning different fields are up for sale, but the number of people willing to buy the books is below expected level. But, there is no dearth of people taking selfie and flipping through the books.

As many as 450 book stalls have been opened in four venues, but it is a matter of regret that there is not much response to buy the books in the district that is known for its love for literature and also Kannada language.

Similarly, there is a thin attendance for various sessions organised at the literary conference. However, there has been a mad rush of people at commercial stalls and food counters.

Don't discriminate among netas, writers: Minister H.K. Patil

Minister for Law, Parliamentary Affairs and Tourism H.K. Patil seen addressing the gathering during a seminar at the 87th Akhila Bharatha Kannada Sahitya Sammelana held in Mandya yesterday.

Mandya, Dec. 22 (MR&BS)- Minister for Law, Parliamentary Affairs and Tourism H.K. Patil appealed to the people not to discriminate between politicians and littérateurs, as politics plays a key role in the growth of literature.

He was addressing the gathering during a seminar on the topic 'Politics in Literature and Literature in Politics' at the main dais named after Rajamathe Rajammanni and Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, on the second day of 87th Akhila Bharatha Kannada Sahitya Sammelana, in the town on Saturday.

Presiding over the seminar, Patil said, veteran littérateurs have power to transform the society. The littérateurs too should take a plunge into politics, but most of them prefer to stay away from politics.

He also observed that, there is no value for the literature penned by politicians. When politicians pen literature, the professionals in the realm should encourage them. It is a matter of regret that, such works are not considered as literature. Earlier, journalist P. Lankesh was cracking a whip creating awareness among politicians. However, no such attempts are made now, he added.

CFTRI stall vandalised over Kannada signboard row

Mandya, Dec. 22 (MR&KS)- Some miscreants, claiming to be Kannada activists, allegedly vandalised a stall set up by the Mysuru-based Central Food Technological Research Institute (CFTRI) at the Kannada Sahitya Sammelana venue yesterday, forcing the staff to shut down the stall and return to Mysuru.

It is reported that the miscreants objected to the display of products and technologies in the English language. The CFTRI staff tried to reason out that the information was also available in Kannada, apart from English.

Upon being informed that the content was displayed in Kannada as well, the miscreants allegedly abused the staff and forcibly removed the displays. The CFTRI staff then closed the stall and returned to Mysuru.

MCC asked to enforce penalties

Additionally, small compost production units could be established near vegetable markets to alleviate the MCC's waste management burden, reducing collection and transportation costs, said Justice Adi.

Close unauthorised PGs

Action must be taken to close unauthorised Paying Guest (PG) centres. They must also maintain cleanliness and meet other necessary criteria to obtain approval.

The MCC must ensure cleanliness in sites where buildings have not yet been constructed. Penalties must be imposed on site owners and if unpaid, measures will be taken to deduct these penalties from property tax, he added.

Strict action must be taken to clear encroachments on footpaths. Footpaths should not be used as display platforms for goods. Measures should be implemented to ensure they are utilised solely for pedestrian movement, said Justice Adi. He emphasised that maintaining cleanliness should become a civic movement and Mysuru must regain its top position in cleanliness.

MCC Commissioner Ashaad-Ur-Rehman Shariff, Health Officer Dr. Venkatesh, Deputy Commissioner (Development) K.J. Sindhu, Assistant Executive Engineer Mrithyunjaya, Founder-President of Mysore Grahakara Parishat Bhamy V. Shenoy, President Shrishaila Ramannavar, Working President Shobhana, Executive Committee Member Arun Kumar Shettar, President of Mysore Hotel Owners Association C. Narayanagowda, Nexus Mall representative Guruprasad, CREDAI Representative Arun Pandit and others were present.

Need for accountability

Towards the end of the meeting, MGP Founder-President Bhamy V. Shenoy requested the MCC Commissioner to release a press statement on activities, projects and reforms that the MCC will implement based on the deliberations of the meeting.

In previous meetings, similar suggestions and recommendations were discussed, but with minimal changes. Conducting a post-audit and holding officials accountable would be beneficial and a press note would set a precedent for making such meetings more productive, he said.

Speaking to SOM, Shenoy emphasised the need to hold authorities accountable. He plans to write to Justice Adi to ensure that his efforts are not in vain.

Waqf property encroachments

Congress refutes BJP MLC's charges on MLA Tanveer Sait

Mysuru, Dec. 22 (GA&DM)- A few days after former BJP MLC G. Madhusudhan accused N.R. Congress MLA Tanveer Sait of grabbing Waqf Board land in Mysuru, City Congress spokesperson S. Rajesh has strongly refuted the allegations, stating that Madhusudhan himself has encroached upon land coming under the Bandipur Forest.

Speaking at a press meet recently, Rajesh alleged that Madhusudhan, who is facing charges of land encroachment, had overlooked his own misdeeds. "It seems Madhusudhan has suddenly woken up from a long slumber to level allegations against Sait," Rajesh remarked.

Clarifying the ownership of several properties, including Ghousia Manzil, a boys' shelter home on Sayyaji Rao Road; Rifa Commercial Complex, which houses Muslim boys' hostel; a girls' residential hostel on Akbar Road and Apna Ghar Orphan Boys' Hostel, Rajesh said that all these are managed and owned by the District Waqf Board, chaired by Sait.

He dismissed claims of land grabbing and urged Madhusudhan to desist from making false accusations. Rajesh further warned that the Congress would pursue legal action if Madhusudhan continued to target its leaders with baseless allegations.

Rowdies warned to mend their ways

Mysuru, Dec. 22 (RK&TRR)- A team of city Police officials, comprising officers from four Police Stations in the Vijayanagar Sub-Division, led by Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) (Law and Order) M. Muthuraju, conducted a parade of rowdy-sheeters at Hebbal Police station yesterday.

A total of 101 individuals against whom Police cases have been filed in the Vijayanagar Sub-Division were summoned to Hebbal Police Station and issued a stern warning, urging them to refrain from unlawful activities.

Those on rowdy list from Hebbal, Vijayanagar, Metagalli and Saraswatipuram Police Stations jurisdictions were paraded.

DCP Muthuraju warned that those involved in unlawful activities such as extortion, interfering in real estate deals, loan recovery, chit-fund transactions, property disputes and disrupting public peace would face severe punishment, including permanent imprisonment.

The DCP advised the rowdies to engage in respectable employment, lead a decent life and take care of their dependents.

He emphasised that if they change their behaviour and contribute positively to the society, the Police would be willing to assist them in turning over a new leaf.

Vijayanagar Sub-Division ACP S.G. Gajendra Prasad, Inspectors A. Mallesh, Diwakar, S.D. Sureshkumar and Purushottham were present.

According to the SP, goldsmith P.J. Pradeep manufactured gold-plated jewellery with funds provided by Mohammed Kunji. Middleman K.A. Nishad would collect the jewellery and pass it to Mohammed Rizwan, who later pledged it at banks. The fraud came to light when Rizwan attempted to pledge eight fake bangles on Dec. 8, leading to his arrest.

Police investigations revealed that eight cases had been registered against the accused across various Police stations. Among the arrested, 10 were linked to a case under Madikeri City Police limits and two were involved in a case in Bhagamandala Police limits.

The arrest and seizure operation was conducted by a team comprising Madikeri Dy.SP Mahesh Kumar, CEN Police Dy.SP Ravi, Madikeri City Circle Inspector P.K. Raju, Madikeri Rural Circle Inspector Anoop Madappa and their staff.

Out on bail, accused continue their fraudulent activities

Among the arrested, goldsmith P.J. Pradeep and middleman K.A. Nishad have a history of similar crimes, with 15 and 4 cases registered against them in Kerala, respectively. Despite being out on bail, they resumed their fraudulent activities, Kodagu Superintendent of Police (SP) K. Ramarajan revealed.

A case has been registered under Section 111 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), which pertains to organised crime, including continuing unlawful activities such as economic offences, cybercrime, trafficking, and other serious crimes. The section allows for a minimum sentence of five years imprisonment, with a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

The SP stated that an appeal would be made to the Court to deny bail to the accused, citing their history of repeat offences. Additionally, there is a provision under Section 111 to seize the assets of the accused.

Steps are underway to confiscate properties linked to the fraud, including a house worth Rs. 1 crore currently under construction by the mastermind, C.M. Mohammed Kunji.
